

AMENDMENTS TO THE SPECIFICATION

[49] First, the OSD menu of the image displayer are is displayed, which includes the broadcasting channel menu, the check box menu for selecting the broadcasting channels, the channel number menu and the frequency menu both corresponding to the broadcasting channels (S100). The broadcasting channel menu, the check box menu, the channel number menu, and the frequency menu are all displayed in one page. Next, a viewer selects broadcasting channels among the broadcasting channels displayed. In other words, the viewer selects his desired channels with reference to the broadcasting channels being displayed and their corresponding sub-menus e.g., the channel number menu and the frequency menu (S200). At this point, the channel setting, e.g., channel recording/channel deleting and channel information changing, is completed by simply checking the check box menu 211 positioned at the left-hand side of the broadcasting channel menu 212.